[illegible] Amendments Wanted from the Government to the Debate on the Crimes Bill.—Gladstone's Tilt at Gambling.—A Statement to Stay His Hastings in Committee.—Mr. Smith at a Contest.—A Young "Plunger."

LONDON, May 11.—[Copyright, 1887, by Press Publishing Company.] The Times [illegible] getting much pale over the forthcoming [illegible] of the Irish members in the closing hours [illegible] of Tuesday, that of yesterday, and the [illegible] one of today. There arrangements [illegible] gambling much, that many the Speaker has refused to assist the others, [illegible] that it would cut off discussion on all [illegible] amendments. The [illegible] practicability of their appropriate. The [illegible] amendments to the Crimes bill are [illegible] fair average. Secretary Balfour, [illegible] of course, some compromise, [illegible] that only comes from [illegible] the bill [illegible] disposed of [illegible] a few days. He forgets that he and his colleagues are mainly responsible for the manner in which some amendments have been compelled over. The Nationalists have [illegible] that when the Ministers to state what changes they would accept, but instead of answering in a straightforward manner [illegible] invariably faced with their opponents, and so provoked the hopeless delay [illegible] protract discussion on previous [illegible] the late period set to the House, there is certain justification for the Parnellites' tactics which brought about the closure on part of the clause, from referred to. They have been changed very materially to please many, and the benefit which will thereby accrue to the Irish is expected to be great. These alterations are still pending. It is [illegible] that when the Ministers object to [illegible] by requiring notice of [illegible] the Speaker has ruled that the notice is [illegible] and that the Ministers make the most of [illegible] they can by playing the game of obstruction for two hours, and the Liberals are staying away from the House of Commons [illegible] than quite a host of it. They [illegible] to demand together last night to support one of Mr. Healy's numerous amendments [illegible] to the Clauses and the Government [illegible] having a majority of eighty-six, [illegible] against [illegible] Chamberlain [illegible] Hartington [illegible] Goschen [illegible] Trevelyan [illegible] Courtney [illegible] Bright [illegible] Forster [illegible] Lord Derby [illegible] Lord Selborne [illegible] Lord Northbrook [illegible] Lord Carlingford [illegible] Lord Hartington [illegible] Lord Cowper [illegible] Lord Spencer [illegible] Lord Ripon [illegible] Lord Granville [illegible] Lord Kimberley [illegible] Lord Rosebery

...ation appointed to investigate and adjust claims of the Union Stock-yards at Chicago were in session all day and night, $1,000,000 last year. The experts for the different companies and their counsel and counsel from the whole Chicago Board of Trade were present. The arbitrators will adjourn from 10 to June 15 at the latest. It will have to be out all before that time for that body to decide. Because the Union Stock-yards property is part of the property with the adjustment of claims for damages, a long time will be consumed, probably more than a month.

THE CHICAGO HOSPITALS.

The special committee appointed early in the session to learn upon what terms the State would get possession of the old Lincoln institution, here met this morning. The Chairman, Mr. Bowman, submitted a proposition from Mr. Robert T. Lincoln offering to send the bonds and lot to the State officers' commissioners as soon as the Legislature should pass an appropriation for the proposed establishment. Mr. Connolly, the prosecutor, who has in his hand a fine collection of photographs, also submitted a proposition to have the lunacy with the county, known as a "farm plan," at a salary of $1,500 a year, with the understanding that in case of the death or removal the collection must become the property of the State of Illinois. A subcommittee was appointed to draft a bill to bring about an agreement on both these propositions. No special effort will be made to get the bill through before the close of the session.

FUND OF ASSISTANCE.

The passage of the resolution for final adjournment May 27 in the Senate today has brought that question to the front outside as a topic for discussion. The question was referred in the House to the Committee on Rules, which will meet in the morning. It seems to be the general opinion that the committee will admit June 10 or June 15 as the date. It will have to be put off further than the first date if the Senate insists on the Senate's resolution providing for any action of the present session with regard to the World's Fair. Several other committees of the House have pressing matters in charge which will require from one to two weeks. Since the new Constitution was adopted the average time of adjournment has been about 5.

DEBATE.

The Senate Committee on Finance unanimously decided to report favorably the bill to give rates of interest from 4 to 7 per cent. The committee recommended a rate of 4 per cent, but added a penalty of from $2 to $10 a ceiling to the bonds for charging more.

TO ARBITRATE.

The Grand Jury investigating the Printing and Other Scrip.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 11.—[Special.]—Before the members of the Senate committee investigating the State printing contracts were summoned before the Sangamon County grand jury to tell what they knew about the letting of the printing contract. The State officers constituting the State Board of Contracts will be called successively during and after them all the persons named in the committee's report to the Senate as having gone to see parties to the contracts, and especially those who received money from D. W. Stahlen & Co. The grand jury's opinion was that before the end of the week the grand jury would have before it at least a dozen individuals, all the information of which the committee has been in possession of for some months. It is understood that the jury have obtained from the Secretary today's statements of the checks drawn by the firm in favor of the persons who received money from them. The committee will be discharged from further investigation. There is no disposition on the part of the jury to make sensational charges against politicians about town who have been relations to the printing scrap.

A CRIMINAL COURT CASE.

When Judge W. J. Allen came to the bench of the Circuit Court for the Southern District of Illinois Monday morning he found here awaiting sentence on a motion being him guilty of fraudulently obtaining a pension for the benevolent old pioneer, Jesse Hall, of Jacksonville. Mr. Hall, who is now eighty years old, was indicted by the grand jury, with the charge that he, as a member of Company —, — Regiment, Illinois Volunteers, during the summer of 1862, while serving as a "scout, guide, or spy," at a salary of $1.00 a year, with the understanding that in case of his death or removal the collector must become the property of the State of Illinois, a pension was appointed to draft a bill to bring about an agreement on both these propositions. No special effort will be made to get the bill through before the close of the session.

TO SATISFY MR. BARNUM.

JAMES W. ELLIS APPOINTED UNITED STATES MARSHAL.

Political Combination Which Influenced President Cleveland—A Batch of Mr. Arthur's Successors—Talk of an Extra Session of Congress in October—Justice Woods Officially Ill—News from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—James W. Ellis of Connecticut was today appointed to be United States Treasurer. This is plainly to satisfy the demand of "Honest Dick" Barnum, whose help will be needed in the new fight for the control of the Democratic organization. Ellis was never known of all last week, when Barnum or his Connecticut friends took the secret that he was to succeed Jordan. The President was so worried at the persistent statement that no one believed Ellis was to be appointed. Ellis is a Washington worthless any office. Barnum, the magic-eye had set in judgment and pronounced against him. But Barnum was not worried. He knew that the office are not being filled with a view to next year. The result shows he was right, and the President did not dare antagonize him. The official bulletin goes out from the White House was to quit most of the responsibility to Secretary Foster[?].

[illegible] W. Ellis has been in Dutch City politics for the past [illegible] years, and has been active and prominent in the Democratic party. He is a [illegible] and [illegible] Democrat, and was [illegible] from the Fifth Connecticut District in 1874 by a majority of [illegible] votes. IN another part of the paper will be found a very interesting letter written some seventeen years ago on the effects of removing hog products. It tells briefly how the export of this kind of food from the United States to the British Islands was nearly wiped off by the putting up of straw here to a point that encouraged the foreigners to go into the business of hog-raising on an extensive scale. It is a lesson that may well be pondered upon now, as the market for provisions in this city has been for many weeks in a state of chronic inflation that has held the product far above the basis of ordinary commerce.

THE local money market was free yesterday, with interest rates at 4 and 5 per cent on call on active demand. Investment securities were more active. Eastern exchange was from 25 cents discount to par. Sterling exchange was heavy. The New York stock market was strong.—The Chicago grain markets were active and generally firm, with a good deal of buying because of the shortage and reports of an extra export business to-day. Provisions were dull and heavy, with prices indicative that the corner in pork was giving way. The shipment with Tuesday pork closed fully 25 per barrel lower, lard 2½ cents lower, ready 10 cents lower, wheat and oats ½ cent higher, corn and rye firm, barley ½ cent lower, and flaxseed 1 cent higher.

IT is manifestly absurd to attribute the failure of the bailout over from at closing Boston and Great Crossing to anything in the Inter-State Commerce act. The unfortunate result is plainly owing to real overproduction of bailout corn. The demand for this manufacture has been falling behind steadily for some time, as the farmers became annoyed with bailout-wire fences; but the actual use not restricted to anything like the same proportion, and, as several prices could not greatly increase the demand where wants were already met, an overstocked bailout was the inevitable result. Perhaps the future may harmonize or prevent in some degree by the substantial freight rates recently established. In place of position to the latter and spirit of the Inter-State act, but there is certainly nothing in that measure that by any reasonable interpretation could work injury to such a business as the manufacture of bailout wire, unless it might be the diminution of extraneous rebates. Bailout-wire factories are complaining now to some but and bound on points far apart. Under such circumstances a fair application of the short-haul rule would not possibly work injury to any one. Without the slightest danger of being either through or long-haul the railroads would give low, long rates to bailout-wire factories wherever located. So far as regards this particular industry it is inexplicable how sensations of resentment could be forced under any pretense of obeying the Inter-State act, but possibly by those most interested even knights of the rule have suffered in the process, are tenacious attempt to save the corn law edicts.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF MR. BLAINE'S STEPBROTHER.

THE St. Paul Pioneer Press returns to the article upon Mr. Blaine in reply to the recent article in The Tribune. In discussing the strength to carefully overlooking to readers who is stronger as a candidate. It shows through considerable space to show that the Republican papers have no authority to speak for the Republicans and that they are powerless to influence their vote except as against Mr. Blaine. Upon what authority does the Pioneer Press make this assertion? Where does it obtain its warrant for stating that the Republicans do not mean what they say when they declare that they will vote for no Democratic candidate if Cleveland is renominated? Even if the Pioneer Press is the best Republican that can express their views? Is it Windom? The Pioneer Press is equally absurd as to the Irish vote. It says "there is a drift of the Irish vote to the Republican party," and that the Irish are "naturally Republicans on principle." This is simply a staggering statement. Will the Pioneer Press inform us when the Irish vote ever polled largely for the Republican party in any State? Will it inform us when the Democratic party, with a party platform from the beginning, ever failed to get the solid Irish vote, or who is it?

THE Pioneer Press reserves for its crushing argument the vague statement that "in the United States, beginning with Hancock's vote on the East and ending with the Blaine vote on the West, the total Republican vote increased between 1880 and 1884 by but 61,724, while the Democratic increase was 97,000." This is certainly a remarkable way of ascertaining the growth of parties. It ascribes Pennsylvania, with its 67,000 majority for Blaine, because that would show an immense increase over the Garfield vote. It casts to one side Michigan, as in Iowa and Nebraska, there was a fusion of Democratic and Labor tickets in the contesting ticket, the navigation paying Democratic votes and dividing the Electoral candidates between Cleveland and Butler in proportion to their respective strengths. The 61,000 Butler votes from cast the Pioneer Press coolly and dishonestly counts as Cleveland votes! It practices this great deception on its readers to bolster Blaine's strength. It also casts to one side to 200 the Prohibition vote, which it admits is honestly cast, does very light, the party being scarcely organized, while to 1884 it polled 25,000 Republican votes in Illinois, 5,000 in Indiana, 21,000 in Kansas, 25,000 in Michigan, 5,000 in Minnesota, 21,000 in New York, 11,000 in Ohio, and 5,000 in Wisconsin. If Mr. Blaine had got these out of the Prohibition votes in New York he would have been elected. But as Republican candidates could have got them, Blaine's allowance for the loss of the Prohibition vote, and estimating the Butler vote cast in the Cleveland-Butler part, Blaine polled as strong a vote as Garfield. He cannot further break votes in New York than he has augmented, as a glance at the closing returns. Give him the votes that enabled to the Prohibition standard and he would have Cleveland by 30,000 majority, notwithstanding all of Cleveland's augmenting boy. Admitting that Blaine could get the majority of the Prohibition vote or the Knights of Labor as Republicans, does the Pioneer Press know any one who can, and, if so, why doesn't it state who he is? Is it Windom? Does it know who can get that Irish Blaine vote, and, if so, will it give the name? In figuring an probabilities that is what we want to know. Perhaps the Pioneer Press has the heart of some one.
